SUMMER WANDERINGS.

June 18th.—When I left Portland for the upper country I was fully prepared to endure both heat and dust. As it is always under protest that I submit to much of either, I was delighted to find that the country east of the mountains is not a rainless country to the extent that it is represented to be. The sandy drive from Wallula to the crossing of the Touchet was necessarily disagreeable, and the tract of alkaline soil extending a few miles beyond the Touchet must be exceedingly tedious to get over in midsummer. So light is it that the earth, powdered by the wheels of wagons and tramp of animals, is blown away by the wind, leaving the wagon track in some places several feet below the level of the ground, rendering it impossible to turn out should two teams meet in one of these dusty canyons. But I was glad to have only to imagine what this road might be at its worst, as there was a smart shower falling at the time I was passing over it which lasted us into Walla Walla. Almost every day of my stay at that place we had flying showers which cooled the air and kept down the dust. In fact the evenings were often cool enough to make a fire desirable in the parlor, as the mornings were almost sure to be.

On the day I left Walla Walla, however, the weather was exquisite. The two horse back which takes the road to Lewiston I found very comfortable. An early start enabled us to avoid the "heated term," should there be one due on that day, which there was not. The freedom of the coach was mine, for I found myself once more the only passenger. The road leads out over a rolling prairie, and usually intersects the streams at right angles, but this morning there was a heavy mail for Lewiston which induced the driver to take a little longer, and to me far pleasanter route; for it led through the valley of Dry Creek, one of the most beautiful farming sections I have ever seen.

There is no timber except cottonwood, birch, alder, willow and sumach along the streams in the Walla Walla valley. The farmers are compelled to go to the Blue mountains, generally a distance of fifteen miles, for lumber, and timber for fencing. Yet every farm has good, high, substantial rail fences, neat looking dwellings and plenty of outhouses. The valley of Dry Creek is narrow—about wide enough, by intersecting it with transverse parallel lines, to make a row of farms extending its whole length. It is perfectly charming to catch a view of this winding belt of cultivation, from any high point on the road, and to note the beautiful effect of the various tints of green, yellow and brown—the various forms of native and cultivated trees—the chequering of fences in the neutral tints—and the central point in each separate farm of the homestead, with its neat and thrifty garden and orchard. Winding through this lovely stretch of cultivation is the limpid, laughing "Creek," fringed with a luxuriant growth of tall glossy green cottonwoods, and drooping, graceful birches and alders. Perhaps it was by contrast with the uniform rolling expanse of grass land on either side that the little valley looked so lovely, but I thought it the perfection of home like, peaceful beauty, and felt my bucolic tastes strongly appealed to. Yet it could not have been by contrast only, for there is beauty, and suggestion of plenty in all the wide expanse of excellent pasture lands undulating miles away on either side. Fat, sleek hided cattle feed in herds on a hundred hillsides. The rosy clarkia, blue lupine, crimson rose, and orange Indian pink, grow in such masses as to impart their hues to whole acres of ground seen in the distance. From every side the meadow-lark trills his liquid melody in notes of exultation peculiarly infectious.

The driver of the mail proved to be a communicative companion, from whom I obtained many items of knowledge concerning the country along his route, all of which went to strengthen my impression that the Walla Walla valley was a choice bit of the great Northwest territory, shortly to become famous for numerous advantages of soil and climate. The only game birds which I noticed were the prairie hen and curlew. The latter, which I had never before seen, interested me by its noisy, silly ways and awkward style of flying or running. Thinking to learn something in natural history, I inquired of the driver (who, by the way, is from Maine,) what was the use of the curlew's four or five inches of bill? The Yankee response was, that he "didn't know, unless it was to eat out of a bottle."

At a little past ten o'clock of the morning, we came again to the Touchet, where stands the little six year old town of Waitsburg—as pretty a spot, and as thriving a new town as there is on the Pacific slope. Six years ago Mr. Wait came to this place, and by dint of great exertion, erected a flouring mill in the winter season. In less than two months his business netted him five thousand dollars. Soon tradesmen of different kinds settled near the mill. Stores and a hotel followed, and to-day there is a village of between one and two hundred, and a business which seems greatly disproportioned in importance to the size of the town. During the four or five days which I spent in Waitsburg, it was a constant surprise to me to see the numbers of farmers' wagons to be seen daily coming in. All the farmers seemed to have money, and trade was all the time brisk. There was also considerable packing from here to the mines.

Waitsburg has yet no church, but the largest and best school house I have seen anywhere out of Portland in the Northwest. It has a school of about sixty pupils, and every Sabbath a Sunday school and Bible class in the same building. There is a Good Templar's lodge also, numbering eighty members, and only one very sickly saloon in the place. An excellent opportunity was afforded me of seeing the people together on the occasion of a speech by Gov. Salomon, and another by a Democratic gentleman from Walla Walla. There was the usual distinctive difference that there always is between the majorities of the two crowds in intelligence and personnel, yet the general appearance of the settlers in the Touchet valley is that of a strong, active, intelligent and well to do class of people.

Contrary to Walla Walla, which is Democratic, Waitsburg is strongly Republican. Gov. Salomon made a very clear, sensible, instructive address, in English so pure and scholarly that I could not help regretting that all our public men are not compelled to learn their mother tongue in foreign schools. The Shoo-Fly song was parodied to suit the occasion by the gentlemen who accompanied the Governor, and the substituting of Shoo Mix and Shoo Blizo, had a very mirth provoking effect.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Wait, who with his lady took me to drive out among the hills, away from the valley lands, I was enabled to see what improvements were being made in the locality. The impression that farms could not be made among the hills is being rapidly done away with. Water is found by sinking wells to a reasonable depth, and springs occur frequently in [illegible] where the water can be conducted for purposes of irrigation to lands on a lower level. Several beginnings had been made where the grain fields presented a very promising appearance.

But a day when leaving Waitsburg for Lewiston I found the road following along the Touchet Valley for twenty miles just a constant succession of thrifty looking farms, with a neat, commodious white painted school house every few miles, that I realized fully the condition of the people in this remote part of our country and felt that they needed little urging on their way to wealth and high social standing. Just for a pleasure jaunt, the road from Walla Walla to where it leaves the Touchet, about twenty miles beyond Waitsburg, is perfectly charming. Beyond this, nearly all the way to Lewiston, a distance of fifty miles, it keeps on the high grounds and crosses the streams at right angles.

From the greatest elevation the views are splendid—wonderful for extent, and [illegible] as one is able to realize that we are traveling like the fly on the rind of an orange, and can look down its slopes to discern a sense of curvature. Just before coming to the descent to the Tucanon river, there is a fine view of the Blue mountains, and of several buttes, among them Steptoe's butte, where the Colonel of that name had a disastrous fight with the Indians, at the breaking out of the Indian war of 1858. Going over the ground now, it strikes one with a strong sense of the difficulties and dangers of such a march through such a country, and of amazement that a small company of whites ever were able to retreat out of it alive.

The hill of the Tucanon is frightful. Seeing the preparation made for its descent prepares the traveler for something of a hill, but when once on the narrow winding grade, with the coach seeming inclined to tumble over the backs of the horses, it is the most natural thing in the world to wish you had not undertaken the ride down. Walking, you reflect, if not so easy a mode of locomotion, has the advantage of being eminently safe, compared to this. A mile and a quarter of such useless terrors prepared one to be thoroughly glad when the lowest level is reached, and crossing the Tucanon you come to the house of Mr. King, a very comfortable stopping place for the night. A house set in the midst of a cottonwood grove, with a little village of barns and outhouses in front of it. Plenty to eat and a good bed seemed almost more than could be expected in so isolated a situation; but Mr. King has a farm here, and there are other farms in the neighborhood.

The drive from the Tucanon to Lewiston was the most tiresome, warm and dusty part of the journey from Wallula. The weather had been growing warmer for two or three days. We had a heavy coach, and an easy driver, who let the horses take their own way, and so we moped along in the sunshine at a very wearisome rate. An excellent dinner refreshed us at the noon station, which inspired me to undertake walking up a long hill immediately after. But the walking up hill was nothing to the heat and fatigue of walking down the long and ugly looking hill into the valley of the Alpowah—the hottest place probably to be found above ground. Just where we enter it a very neat house is kept with a tidy garden in the rear, giving promise of many good things in the progress of summer.

The Alpowah is a shallow, but unfailing stream, very crooked, and bordered with much flowering shrubbery. Its narrow bottom is occupied by the Indians as farming land. The corn and melon vines in these Indian farms looked unusually thrifty, and occasionally quite a decent house was to be seen. But usually the residence of the Indians were of a temporary character—a tent of skins.

We were certainly a very thirsty party when we arrived at the crossing of Snake river and the ferryman gave us a glass of ice water and certainly also a very dirty looking one when we arrived at our journey's end in Lewiston. The glimpse I got of hotel life in that city did not tend to my personal comfort; but after a few hours of it I was unexpectedly rescued by some friends who kindly took me home with them, to the comforts of private life and social intercourse.

The Tax Bill in the Senate.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

The Senate shows itself abreast with the House in willingness to reduce the taxes, and even a little ahead. The public sentiment on this subject has apparently had its influence since Congress assembled. We must add, however, in justice, that there has been in some journals a quite uncalled for acridity of tone on this subject. Congress has not hitherto presented the singular anomaly of a popular Legislature unwilling to reduce taxes—the easiest way in the world to gain democratic [illegible]. On the contrary, it has been continually and rapidly taking off taxation ever since the war. In 1866, $65,000,000 were removed, in 1867, $40,000,000, in 1868, $70,000,000. In 1869, if less progress was made in this direction, it was due to the fact that the Johnson Administration, in its efforts to sustain the Democratic party, had quite exhausted its resources. During that year, however, Grant and Boutwell made it manifest that $50,000,000 more could be collected and $30,000,000 less spent than under Johnson, and to this discovery we owe the renewed energy for reduction. Accordingly, we find the bill as it left the House took off at least $75,000,000, and the Senate amendment will apparently swell this amount to $80,000,000, and perhaps to $90,000,000. The special taxes left by the House, except those on banks and liquor or tobacco dealers, have been struck off, and the stamp taxes have been curtailed. The income tax in its reduced condition was reported from committee, and the Senate, after debate upon the propriety of repealing it altogether, does not seem inclined to increase the rate or lessen the exemptions.

These changes will make a total reduction of about $25,000,000 on the tariff, and $55,000,000 to $60,000,000 on internal taxes. This will be a notable reduction, and will probably still leave a considerable surplus to apply to reduction of the debt, for the resources of the country are constantly increasing, and respond to every stimulus of this sort.

DYING OF HUNGER.—The different phases which the sufferings of these people exhibited and the manner in which they met their doom, were peculiar to each. Some bowing in meek resignation passed calmly away. Some, their countenances radiant with divine aspirations, died singing songs of triumph and praise. Some bewailed their hard lot with loud lamentations and tears of anguish, while others shrinking from notice, perished in stolid and gloomy silence. A few raved wildly, reproaching themselves, upbraiding others, or impiously cursing God for their fate. Some, arousing from a dreamy stupor, would talk incoherently of the bountiful tables and the green fields they had seen; or, perhaps, address absent friends, as present, in the most tender and affectionate language. In some cases, just before death, the mental faculties would appear to expand and attain a wonderful exaltation. The things of earth faded softly away, and in their place delectable visions arose in unblended splendor. All that had perplexed them in years gone by was miraculously explained, and the things of the long forgotten past brought vividly before them. The pangs of hunger seemed already allayed—the soul having become so nearly disembodied as to no longer recognize the wants of its earthly tabernacle.—From "The Donner Party," in Overland Monthly for July.

THE GERMAN IMMIGRANTS OF 1870.—According to the Magdeburger Zeitung the emigrants of this year are distinguished from those of former years by the fact that five-sixths of those who have resolved to seek a new home in America are those in the possession of capital. Besides this they are mostly people of some knowledge. Formerly the peasants and day laborers of Pomerania, West Prussia, and Posen formed the principal part of the emigration. These were therefore almost utterly unacquainted with the state of affairs in the Union, who went there and were exposed to numerous dangers before they could settle. This year it is more particularly the more intelligent farmer and merchant who seeks [illegible] of trying his fortune. Besides the above mentioned districts Priegnitz sends a large number of emigrants, who follow their countrymen into the most promising parts of the country. It is not without interest to [illegible] that thousands of them were among the founders of Chicago, and these have of course become very rich people.

The City of Ragusa, an argosy twenty feet long, manned by two sailors and a dog, and bound on a voyage across the Atlantic to New York recently, put into Queenstown for repairs, having sprung a leak. It is to be hoped the necessary [illegible] will give the adventurers on board a time for consideration, and that they will [illegible] further foolhardy purpose. If they meant to risk their necks in a new attempt to find a continent or Northwestern passage, there would be some just grounds for the enterprise. But as it is, the voyage is simply an outrage upon the confiding nature of the Newfoundland dog.

A Southwestern paper thus epitomizes lynch law: "Four Kentuckians, in jail for murdering a neighbor, had a surprise party from a hundred or two citizens the other night. They hadn't any last words ready, and wouldn't have had time to say them if they had? All leave families."

Portland.

[From the Salem Statesman.]

If there is a tide in the affairs of men, so there is also in the career of cities; and in the histories of both there are golden opportunities that only need to be improved to lead on to fortune. Portland has grown slowly and surely rich. Her merchants came there poor, scarce one of them having business capital, and the greatest and proudest of her capitalists to-day, were blessed with more energy than wealth when they tied their fortunes to the town, but planting themselves where they could catch the stream of trade, they sat down and let it pour their laps full of treasure, and the consequence is that they live in complacent ease to-day upon the wealth which has flowed in upon them.

Heretofore there has been one tide in the affairs of that city, which has grown richer than the State, because it has successfully levied a tax upon both the imports and exports of Oregon and kept the State in vassalage to the town. If we were to say that her citizens have displayed remarkable enterprise, we would level a prodigious sarcasm at her honest burghers, whose highest aim and most successful endeavors have been to restrain the commerce of our State within such bounds, that the city will remain in full control. Every effort to maintain direct trade with the East, which is possible and proper, Portland has thwarted; any attempt to encourage cheap fares and freights she has discouraged; and when railroad communication with California was talked of they denounced it as a ridiculous and suicidal idea.

It really seemed as if the men who ranked as prominent and influential capitalists there, were afraid the State would develop faster than they could control it, and dreaded, above all things, the commencement of any enterprises which were beyond their reach and control. Perhaps they were not to blame with being satisfied with a heavy commission on everything the country had for sale, or could afford to buy. They had a sure thing, and were modest enough not to want more, for theirs has always been the lion's share. But the people naturally long for some change or growth that shall favor them, they will favor all enterprises which can develop Oregon, and they hail the coming of capital in any form, which can wield a thousand picks and level our ways for coming railroads.

The "business managers" of Portland have corraled an enterprise, and have got it on their hands. They strangled the East side road for a wail, determined it should enrich them, or Oregon should wait for its accomplishment. They may now be squeezing the "West Side" enterprise, determined to force out a golden egg or kill it, and if that is their plan they had better stand aside and let the road pass into other and legitimate hands, that stand ready to build railroads upon the guaranty that one now can afford. It is certain that the investment of an amount within the easy reach of Portland capital, can insure the speedy construction of the West Side road. Let them furnish the money, then, or give up the project to those both able and willing. The tide is flowing which leads on to fortune, and if Portland will ride upon it, to be greater, and disarm opposition and rivalry, let her rich men develop the liberal enterprise necessary to insure permanent greatness.

It is not impossible to divert a great part of the trade of this country to some other channel. Great influences will be brought to bear in favor of Puget Sound as a grand commercial point. A railroad is to be built to Astoria. Portland don't believe it, and considers the project a pretty joke, which will die out if let alone, but the road will be built: the road to the Sound will be built; the roads to the Humboldt and to Sacramento will be built; the Northern Pacific road is already building, and the question with Portland to-day, is not how to speculate upon great enterprises, and on the State at large, but to use her means, which are enormous, to aid and direct this development, and make every enterprise redound to her own future greatness. Else they may, before long, be singing that not very classic song, "Root Hog, or Die."

FREE TRADE LOGIC.—From the Philadelphia Press we have the following:

There are two modes of getting our produce to market: the one is to extend and cheapen transportation to those points where the transformation of the breadstuffs, cotton, wool, and pig iron, into cloths and implements can be carried on with the capital already engaged in it; the other is to build up the means of transformation in our own midst, and so avoid the further cost of transportation at once and forever.

If a farmer had no well or barn on his farm, and was obliged to haul his water two miles each day from his right neighbor's well, and drive his cattle four miles every night to be stalled in the barn of his neighbor to the left, we should say to him, "fool, dig your own well and build your own barn, and stop this useless and wasting toil of transporting your water and your cattle to and fro." If he should answer, "No; mine is an agricultural farm and neighbor Brown and Smith dig wells and build barns much cheaper than I can afford to; besides, how much less labor it is to drive my cattle four miles, once, than to build a barn, and how much cheaper to draw water two miles than to dig a well;" they would answer him, "true, it costs you more for the first pail of water, and the first day's stalling of your cattle, but after that you are constantly saving by having got rid of your excessive cost of transportation." If he alleged that "what would not pay best at first would not pay best at all," he would have borrowed the whole wisdom of free trade.

General Grant has lately performed the duty of arbitrator between the Governments of Great Britain and Portugal. The subject of dispute was the island of Bolama, on or near the coast of Guinea. It was discovered by the Portuguese about the end of the fifteenth century. Several attempts had been made to turn it to account by settlers, and in 1753 they took formal possession of it in a manner to avoid all difficulty as to the validity of their title. In 1772 the petty chiefs of the country, in return for merchandise worth thirty pounds sterling, ceded their right of ownership in the island to the English. For a long time no advantage was taken of this cession, but at length finding some use for the island, the Governor of Sierra Leone ordered the Governor of Portuguese Guinea to yield up the possession to its proper owner, [illegible] paid for it. This [illegible] and finally it was agreed to submit the matter to arbitration. England, to whom the choice of an arbitrator was left, selected the President of the United States. General Grant has decided in favor of Portugal.

Gen. Jordan, "the commander of the insurgent Cubans," is still in Washington. He appears calm, and, to look at him, nobody would suppose he was insurgent. Yesterday he loafed all the morning in the reporters' gallery, and then went to Willard's and agonized over quails, green peas and iced champagne. He turns over three times in the morning before he gets up, which is the only revolution he engages in. He collects money for the 'junta,' and represents the junta in distributing it. But he writes to them every week, telling them to pitch in, and assures them that he is with them. It is a case where absence of body is better than presence of mind.

SATURDAY MORNING JULY 2 1870

Ohio Democratic Platform, Again

All the Democratic papers are now engaged in expounding the platform their party has adopted in Ohio. They state that the only contest there is in the party [illegible] who are for open repudiation and those who would scale the debt down to the [illegible] which the bonds passed [illegible] were issued. In the [illegible] there are two sections of the party, the one of which would repudiate from one [illegible] half the debt [illegible] could not agree, and a compromise was effected by [illegible]. Hence no allusion was made in the platform to the debt. The most eminent of the Democratic organs declares that the party there and throughout the West generally are divided, and only divided, on the point whether any portion of the debt should be paid at all. "A large and perhaps a controlling section of the party," we are told, "are for open and undisguised repudiation, and no portion of the party believes that the debt should be paid in full." The party organs in Oregon endorse this position, and pronounce encomiums upon the Democrats of Ohio.

But though the Western Democracy as we are assured, are nearly or quite unanimous on this subject of repudiation, the party as a whole cannot agree upon it. In New York and New England a repudiation platform or an avowal of repudiation by the party leaders would certainly destroy the organization. The moment the party in New York should get upon the ground on which the party stands or is said to stand in Ohio, that moment its hope of controlling the Empire State would be gone. And when New York is gone what hope remains to the party? Between the Democrats of the East and West there is an irreconcilable difference on this question. An instance of it is seen in the controversy between the New York World and the Cincinnati Enquirer over the Ohio platform. The World had declared that the silence of the platform in regard to the debt and the demand for greatly reduced taxation meant first that the greenback issue was abandoned, and second that the payment of the debt should be left to future generations, for the reason that any considerable reduction of revenue at this time would leave no surplus to pay on the principal. This interpretation the Enquirer pronounces entirely erroneous. It proceeds in this way: "The Democracy of Ohio are for a low tariff and for little or no revenue because, in the first place, they are for discharging or ridding themselves of a considerable portion of the public debt. To maintain that at its present figure would necessarily entail upon us, in the settlement of its interest, immense taxation. Those who insist upon retaining the debt principal and interest, and yet have a low revenue tariff and light taxation, are for that which can never be accomplished. It is in fact a fraud upon the country. * * * We are not willing to be saddled with the interest and then allow posterity to pay the debt." This is explicit enough. The revenue is to be stopped in order that there may be no means of paying either the principal or interest and that repudiation may follow as a matter of course.

The Enquirer goes on at great length to combat the World's ideas, and to convince that paper that the silence of the Ohio platform on the debt does not mean that the Democracy of that State are in favor of paying at all. We notice that the Oregon Herald fully approves the position taken by the Enquirer. Now the people of the United States will show that they have a short way of settling with those who propose such a dishonest public policy, and the Democratic party will be able to read their verdict in the elections in Ohio and other great States this fall.

President Grant and Cuba

The course pursued by President Grant toward Cuba commends itself strongly to the intelligence and practical good sense of the country, and is in marked contrast with the conduct and advice of the hot-headed demagogues in Congress who have been making war on him. All that portion of the American press whose opinions are worth attention have expressed the fullest approval of the message on Cuban affairs. For example the New York Times says of it:

> As a question of policy our relations with Cuba are ably and concisely summed up in the statement, "the question of belligerency is one of fact, not to be decided by sympathies for or prejudice against either party." After an exhaustive resume of arguments which we have repeatedly adduced in connection with the same subject, the President comes to the conclusion: "I am unable to see in the present condition of the contest in Cuba those elements which are requisite to constitute war, in the sense of international law." The strength of a conviction which has been reached in spite of a natural leaning to the cause of the struggling colonists, and in spite, also, of the weight of popular sympathy inclining in an opposite direction, cannot fail to be appreciated by every candid citizen.

Not less emphatic is the judgment of the New York Herald. That paper says:

> The fact is the attitude taken by the administration is the only one possible for an honest practical government; and though it oppose boldly a popular sentiment in favor of the name of freedom it must eventually secure the full support of the national common sense. Consider the consequences of embroiling ourselves in the quarrels of the Cubans—immediate interruption of the payment of the debt, immediate decrease in the price of the bonds, financial confusion, a new lease of life for all tax laws, the cessation of the vast emigration that is pouring in upon us. These are but the more immediately obvious of a train of evils. Let the people only weigh all this against the mere sentiment and rhetoric on the other side and they will see how clearly and practically Grant is in the right. Unfortunately, however, our sympathies are too apt to run away with our practical ideas.

We might quote columns of similar declarations from leading journals. The truth is we need in the Government just that element of steadiness and strong common sense which has been manifested by the President in dealing with this matter.

By the new apportionment [illegible] number of members in the popular branch of Congress is increased to 300. The act requires that [illegible] report of the results of the census shall be made on or before the 20th of September 1870 that the basis of representation may be ascertained in advance of the publication of all the details. It also provides that where there is an increase of the number of members to be elected at the next Congress the additional membership shall be elected on a general ticket unless the State previously provide some other method.

"A home market enriches the land, a foreign market impoverishes it," says the Philadelphia Press, and the remark is a true one. The great want of Oregon is a home market. We can only have it by developing manufacturing industry. And manufacturing industry can only be developed under a proper system of protection against foreign labor and products. It is the home market that profits the agriculturist, for his products are not eaten up by middlemen and transporters.

A Democratic Record

In January 1866 H. H. Haight, the [illegible] Democratic Governor of California, [illegible] published in the Sacramento [illegible] the following resolutions concerning the Chinese:

Resolved, That the present position of the Oriental nations is fraught with the most profound interest to the Christian world, and that we as citizens of California, [illegible] by the wonderful leadings of Providence [illegible] with [illegible] with peculiar satisfaction the [illegible] the times, and that we feel an imperative [illegible] to [illegible] effort for the welfare of [illegible] of [illegible] our elder brethren—the people of China.

Resolved, That we regard with pleasure the presence of great numbers of these people among us as affording the best opportunity of doing them good and through them of exerting our influence upon their native land.

And in 1868 at the Burlingame banquet he said to the representatives of the Chinese people:

"As the Chief Magistrate of this State, I welcome you to this city. You have accepted a mission in the interest of progress, of commerce and of humanity. I bid you on behalf of this nation, on behalf of Europe, on behalf of humanity itself, a hearty welcome and God speed."

So it will be seen that the Democratic Governor of the leading State of the Pacific has a record of this subject that needs no explanation.

A bill was recently introduced and discussed in Congress to regulate contests for seats in that body, with a view of putting a stop to contests that are made on trivial grounds, and with great cost to the country. The Washington Chronicle says that Mr. Dawes, in a speech favoring the proposed bill, gave in instance of a thrifty young man from Oregon who managed to get a few votes for Congress, and came on without the shadow of a right to a seat in the House, and "although the Committee on Elections dispatched him home very quickly, he took $7,600 out of the Treasury and went home with it." This money was taken out of the treasury by that bull-neck Democrat A. J. Thayer of Corvallis. But if a Radical had cribbed it there would have been a terrible uproar in the opposition press about it!

A writer in the Commercial notices Dr. Loryea's offer to secure the construction of the west side road, treats it as a hoax, and tries to be severe on the OREGONIAN for printing Loryea's letter. Now it may be that the offer is a "hoax" and that Dr. Loryea could do nothing to secure the building of the road, but he could hardly fail in it more conspicuously than Mr. Ladd and the gentlemen of the O. S. N. Co. have so far done. The writer in the Commercial says with some emphasis: "Let us have business talk about railroads and no humbug." The very thing we have been urging. The people of Portland want to hear business talk on this subject from the gentlemen above designated. They are the very ones to be heard from. It is gratifying to observe that their own paper is made an instrument for urging them on.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The following is an extract from the joint resolution authorizing the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to issue its bonds for the construction of its road and to secure the same by mortgage, and for other purposes, which has passed Congress, and received the approval of the President:

And that twenty-five miles of the main line between its western terminus and the city of Portland in the State of Oregon, shall be completed by the 1st of January 1872 and forty miles of the remaining portion thereof each year thereafter until the whole shall be completed between the said points.

During an examination of the class in higher geography by Miss Rodney at St. Helens Hall in this city on Friday last, the question was asked: "In what respect is Washington the most highly favored of Territories?" The impromptu and most satisfactory answer was—"Because it is situated near Oregon!"

OREGON

A tri-weekly mail service is now in operation between Salem and Dallas.

The Fourth Annual meeting of the Oregon and Washington Health Reform Association will meet at Silverton, Marion county, on Wednesday, July 6th, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The Commercial Hotel at Salem has come to a stand still and some twenty men around town are awaiting the arrival of the iron work to enable the work to proceed.

Mr. Beriah Brown will go to Astoria to establish a newspaper. The Statesman says that if he will fill the local column nicely, and skip two-thirds of the politics after he writes it, Astoria may do well by him.

The Statesman says that the increase of business at the Salem postoffice has caused its promotion to be one of the second class, which secures extra compensation for clerk hire, office rent, etc., and makes it a better thing generally.

In an article on the new daily mail route (west side) the McMinnville paper says: "We learn that soon after the line is established the company propose to commence work to establish a telegraph line from Portland to Corvallis along the stage route."

The Jacksonville News has published what it calls a black list, containing the names of all Democrats who would not vote the straight ticket. The Sentinel says of it: "The names of almost all the prominent men in the Democratic party in this county can be found there."

The Christian Brotherhood have purchased the printing material lately owned by Beriah Brown, Esq., and intend to immediately commence the publication at Monmouth, Polk county, of a paper of the size of the Pacific Christian Advocate, to be in the interest of that denomination. So says the Statesman.

Mr. Jacob Conser has made satisfactory arrangements with the Oregon and California Railroad Company for the location of a depot at Jefferson. The company are to receive ten acres of land for the depot site and a portion of the adjoining land is to be divided into alternate town lots to be the property of the company.

POLITICAL ITEMS

Vallandigham, after ostentatiously announcing his retirement from politics, turned up at the Ohio Democratic State Convention as chief ring master.

The Democratic papers have manifested much anxiety lest the terrible Radical Congress should admit Whittemore to a seat, and have been pitching into it in advance, on the presumption that Whittemore's credentials would be received and he would be reinstated. But now that Congress has ignominiously kicked the scoundrel from its doors, the Democrats are equally dissatisfied. Their anticipated thunder is stolen, and they even intimate that a possible wrong may have been done.

Congressman Axtell (dem.) in a brief sensible speech on Chinese citizenship made in Congress recently said: "I do not believe one intelligent man can be found on the Pacific coast who favors Chinese suffrage, and I respectfully submit that the opinion of an intelligent people, unanimously expressed, is not to be ignored by Congress." Mr. Axtell's conclusions are correct, and he has the candor and honesty to tell the truth in the face of the false reiterations of the Democratic press that the Republican party desires to confer the privilege of the suffrage upon the Chinese, and these assertions are made without warrant or justification.

CURRENT NOTES

Ladies who refuse to tell the census taker their ages [illegible] dollars. It is supposed that the government will receive a large revenue from the strong minded in consequence.

A water spout recently burst in Trabrey, Germany, by which eighty houses were destroyed, and the dead bodies of 214 persons were found strewed about in the fields and taken out of a neighboring river.

At [illegible] of June [illegible] Dickens' last work, Chapman the publisher of Dickens' works, publishes a statement that one half [illegible] of The Mystery of Edwin Drood has been written. The story will be published as far as written, and no one will be permitted to finish it.

Gen. Anderson, the hero of Fort Sumter, is reported very ill in Tours. His health was seriously impaired by anxiety, exposure and privation while defending Fort Sumter, and though he was assigned to light duty during the war, and eventually relieved entirely, he has never recovered. It now seems clear that he will never be able to return home, but will die in a foreign land.

The Chicago Post, alluding to the manner in which the late proclamation by Gov. Holden of North Carolina is treated by the Democratic Press, expresses the belief that had one of those prints been published 6,000 years ago on the banks of the Euphrates, it would have had a column concerning the first murder headed: "Great Outrage on Cain! His Crops Destroyed by Abel's Sheep. Cain defends Himself!"

It is said of the Sioux Indians, whose chief is Red Cloud, that no young man of the tribe can spark a maiden or marry until he has taken a scalp or stolen a horse. From the insolent and defiant manner of their chiefs while at Washington we may look for a lively marrying season on the plains shortly. Whoever loses his scalp at the hands of a young Sioux brave, may console himself with the romantic idea that his misfortune confers happiness on some pining dusky maiden.

Dr. Shelton Mackenzie is occupied in writing a Life of Charles Dickens, to be prefixed to a volume of his uncollected pieces, in prose and verse, which T. B. Peterson & Brothers of Philadelphia announce for immediate publication. This volume will contain recollections, anecdotes and letters, and will trace the entire literary career of the great novelist from his first connection with journalism as a reporter to its unexpected and lamented termination on the 9th of June, 1870.

A Texas paper tells of a young couple who eloped on horseback, accompanied by the clergyman who was to marry them. The lady's father gave chase, and was overtaking the party, when the maiden called out to the clerical friend: "Can't you marry us as we run?" The idea took, and he commenced the ritual, and just as the bride's father clutched her bridle rein, the clergyman pronounced the lovers man and wife. The father was so pleased with the dashing action that, as the story goes, he gave them his blessing.

The Chicago Post, in the course of a modest article on that city, says: "By no possibility can New York extend beyond Two Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. There the Spuyten Duyvil comes in and bars all progress. Chicago can go to Seventeen Thousand Nine Hundred and Eighty-seventh street without an obstruction. As 17,987 is greater than 225, so will Chicago be greater than New York in the good time coming. Such is the unanswerable argument of geography and the earth's surface as established from the foundations of the world."

The naturalization treaty between the United States and Great Britain was signed at London on the 13th May and submitted to the Senate for ratification on the 5th June. The treaty simply provides that citizens of the United States may become subjects of Great Britain when naturalized according to the laws of the country, and conversely. This, of course, merely amounts to a renunciation by the British government of the obnoxious principle, "Once a subject, always a subject," since the United States has never denied the right of its citizens to alienate their allegiance.

It is asserted that Jefferson Davis is now at Memphis, living in poor health, and that not only his property, but that of Joe Davis, his richer brother, is almost entirely lost to them. Joe Davis' plantation is now owned by Ben Montgomery, formerly a negro slave in the family, who was taught to read by white people in New Orleans, Washington, and other places which he visited as a body servant, and who finally became the chief overseer and accountant of his master. After the investment of Vicksburg, when the Davises were refugees, Montgomery had a chance to plant three full crops of cotton, and he made enough money to pay the first installment of the purchase price of the plantation, viz., $300. He has made several payments since, and he is now esteemed among the ablest planters in Mississippi.

OUR CITIZENS certainly deserve credit for the energy they display to make the Oregon Immigration and Labor Exchange a success and benefit to the State as well as the immigrants coming to our State. Every citizen should give all the aid in their power to help the large number of strangers coming to our State, and not forget to inform them that Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, have the largest stock of clothing in Oregon. Their goods are of superior quality and sold at extremely low prices.

TWENTY DAYS AMONG THE BERRIES AND ROOTS.—[illegible] hundred days and several other men in their time have had their historic periods. Modern tourists are heavy on "so many days on the Rhine" or "so many days among the sausage builders." And now we have a modern instance in which the hero or the victim might be made the subject of a moving tale. A man—name not known but unimportant—started a long time ago to go from Astoria to Monticello. He traveled well but not wisely, and thereby got lost. His commissary stores (he wore soldier's clothes) gave out and for twenty days, he traveled living on berries and roots and at the end of his [illegible] arrived a day or two since at the mouth of the Klaskanine river, about thirty miles from Astoria. Having lived so long on [illegible] berries he was very [illegible] to be buried when found. Either from exposure or fright, the poor fellow's hair and beard had got loose so that upon the [illegible] they would fall out. Altogether, he was about the sorriest specimen of whom we have any account since the days when Nebuchadnezzar went out to grass.

HYDRAULIC JACKS.—Old man Archimedes went for a lever with which to move the world and failed for want of a fulcrum. Old Archie died of disappointment, and the next man more modest, invented the hydraulic jack, a contrivance that won't move the earth, but which can come mighty near it. Mr. W. M. Burtch, of this city, has just received a half dozen of these delicate little instruments, each of which will raise seven tons a foot in a minute and a half. In San Francisco, they raise the tallest kind of brick buildings with this sort of machine. If anybody wants to get lifted out of his boots Mr. Burtch and his jacks are just the chaps to do it.

COLLECTION FOR THE POPE.—Agreeable to an announcement by the Very Rev. Father Fierens on last Sunday, a collection will be made for the Holy Father on to-morrow, the Sunday within the octave of the feast of SS. Peter and Paul. The collection, says the Sentinel, is in accordance with a decree of the last Plenary Council at Baltimore which also contains a provision that if that day should not be suitable each pastor has the permission to select a more convenient time.

THE RAILROAD EXCURSION.—The grounds selected for the railroad picnic on the 4th are pleasantly situated on the north bank of the Clackamas river, whence there is a fine view of Oregon City and the falls. The Clackamas paper mill is just on the other side of the stream and there is an old bed and burying ground near. The cars are to be fitted up with special reference to safety and comfort. The train will stop at Brooklyn Mill No. 2 and at Milwaukie going and returning.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVALS.—Says the Sentinel: Very Rev. F. X. Weninger returned from his missionary labors in St. Paul, Marion county, and St. Patrick's, Yamhill county, last Thursday evening. From private sources we learn that his labors were crowned with most eminent success in both places. We are promised more particular accounts and we [illegible] publish them in our next. Very Rev. J. [illegible] A. Brouillette, of Walla Walla, arrived here this evening.

FILLING UP.—From Mr. Smith, a resident of Oshoco valley, who arrived here yesterday, we learn that that section of country is filling up very rapidly with settlers. All the places at which water can be obtained are being taken. Oshoco valley is all claimed. On some of the streams there are still opportunities for settlers, but suitable situations are being occupied fast. People are coming in larger numbers than at any former time.

BREWERY CHANGES HANDS.—We learn that the Oregon Steam Brewery has been disposed of to Shaw & [illegible] put too fine a point on it the boys in the [illegible] who indulge in good [illegible] are indebted to Shaw & [illegible] that same sort of ale. An agency for the Brewery has been established at Dr. A. H. [illegible] Drug Store.

LIBRARY [illegible].—The [illegible] Library and Christian [illegible] will hold their quarterly meeting [illegible] at two o'clock. Members are requested to be present as important [illegible] among which is the passing upon [illegible] of the committee on the constitution and by-laws.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 1, 1870.

CITY.

PAVEMENTS.—The question of pavements—what kinds are most economical and least objectionable in a sanitary point of view—is being discussed in San Francisco, in a vein which is decidedly serious. The Commercial Herald of the city on this subject says: "The action taken by Dr. Holland, of the Board of Health, in reference to wooden pavements, should meet with the commendation and active support of every citizen. Decaying vegetable substance is profuse enough in the city, in a natural way, but when it is systematically spread out to all the largest space, it is time some hygienic remedy should be applied. The miasmatic influences of decaying wooden pavements have been frequently the subject of remark among our medical men, but it has not before been taken hold of in an official manner. No doubt is entertained, by those who have given the subject consideration, that to this cause may be attributed much of the virulence which characterized the small pox in this city, and to it we may justly look for the retention, if not engendering, of other epidemics. As the city grows larger, the evil will increase, until its removal, or its arrest to any extent, will be a very costly and dangerous process. It is within your own knowledge, that in streets where the planking has been removed, after long service, a great deal of sickness has been experienced among families residing on them, and in the immediate neighborhood. It is during the night that malefic properties of plank streets and wooden pavements are most powerfully evolved, and, in some places, the odor arising from them is very disagreeable. We submit that wooden pavements are preferable to coble-stones, or any other material yet introduced here, they should not be permitted to be laid down until the condition required by the Board of Health shall be complied with, viz: that the materials composing them shall be preserved from decay by artificial means, by the injection of hydro carbon or mineral salts into the pores of the wood. The authorities have been officially notified, and will be held accountable for any and every evil that may occur through neglect of duty in this particular."

TWENTY DAYS AMONG THE BERRIES AND ROOTS.—Napoleon had his "hundred days," and several men in their time have had their historic days. Modern tourists are "heavy" on "so many days on the Rhine," or "so many days among the sausage builders." And now we have a modern instance in which the hero of the adventure might be made the subject of a moving tale. A man—name not known, but unimportant—started a long time ago to go from Astoria to Tillamook. He traveled well but not wisely, and got lost. His commissary stores (he wore no clothes) gave out, and for twenty days, he was living on berries and roots, and at the pre-historic period, arrived a day or two at the mouth of the Kiskaskine river, ten miles from Astoria. Having lived almost exclusively on berries, he was very near a condition to be buried, when found. From exposure or fright, the poor fellow's hair and beard had got loose so that upon the slightest touch they would fall out. Altogether, he presented the sorriest specimen of whom we have any knowledge since the days when Nebuchadnezzar went to grass.

HYDRAULIC JACKS.—Old man Archimedes wanted a lever with which to move the world and a place to put a fulcrum. Old Archie died of disappointment, and the next man more modest, invented the hydraulic jack, a contrivance that won't move the earth, but which can come mighty near it. Mr. W. M. Burtch, of this city, has just received a half dozen of these delicate little instruments, each of which will raise seven tons and a half. In San Francisco, the tallest kind of brick buildings with this machine. If anybody wants to get out of his boots, Mr. Burtch and his jacks has the ships to do it.

COLLECTION FOR THE POPE.—Agreeable to an order by the Very Rev. Father Fierens, Vicar General, a collection will be made for the Holy Father on to-morrow, the Sunday within the octave of the feast of SS. Peter and Paul. This, says the Sentinel, is in accordance with a decree of the last Plenary Council at Baltimore, which also contains a provision that if that day should not be suitable, each pastor has permission to select a more convenient time.

MILWAUKIE EXCURSION.—The grounds selected for the railroad picnic on the 4th are pleasant, situated on the north bank of the Clackamas where there is a fine view of Oregon City and the falls. The Clackamas paper mill is just on the side of the stream, and there is an excellent playing ground near. The cars are to be run with special reference to safety and comfort. The train will stop at Brooklyn Mill and at Milwaukie, going and returning.

CATHOLIC ARRIVALS.—Says the Sentinel: Rev. F. X. Weninger returned from his labors in St. Paul, Marion county, and St. Paul's, Yamhill county, last Thursday. From private sources we learn that his labors were crowned with most eminent success in both places. We are promised more particular details and will publish them in our next. Rev. J. B. A. Brouillette, of Walla Walla, is visiting.

TILLAMOOK.—From Mr. Smith, a resident of Tillamook, who arrived here yesterday, we learn that that section of country is filling up rapidly with settlers. All the places at which water can be obtained are being taken, and are well claimed. On some of the streams there are still opportunities for settlers; but these are being occupied fast. Settlers are coming in larger numbers than at any time.

BREWERY CHANGED HANDS.—We learn that the "Oregon Steam Brewery," has been disposed of to Shaw & Co. Not to put too fine a point on it, the boys in the OREGONIAN office who indulged in "good old ale and strong," are indebted to Shaw & Co. for a cask of that same sort of ale. An agency for the Brewery has been established at Dr. A. H. Kallenburg's Drug Store.

LIBRARY MEETING.—The Catholic Library and Christian Doctrine Society will hold their quarterly meeting to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock. Members are requested to be present, as important business is to be transacted, among which is action upon the report of the committee on constitution and by-laws.

ORO FINO THEATER.—There will be a matinee performance this afternoon, as usual, when the play of the "Lady of Lyons" and "The Man who never saw a Woman" will be played. In the evening the entertainment will consist of "Milly White" and the farce of "In and Out of Place."

TEMPERANCE LECTURER.—Mr. C. Beal of this city is out on a lecturing tour in the cause of temperance. He will lecture at Liberty Church, Tuesday, July 5th; at Scio, Wednesday, July 6th; at Jefferson, Thursday, July 7th, and at Knott's Butte, Friday, July 8th.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—We were in error in stating that the new Commissioners would meet yesterday. The old Commissioners met and settled up their unfinished business. Monday being a non-judicial day, the new Commissioners will not meet till Tuesday.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE LABOR EXCHANGE.—We learn that the monthly subscriptions to the Labor Exchange fund has reached to something over two hundred dollars—that is, over two hundred per month, for six months.

PORTLAND P. O. ON THE 4TH OF JULY.—We are requested to state that the 4th of July, being a legal holiday, the general delivery of the Post Office will be open from 7:30 till 8:30 A. M. and from 4 till 5 P. M.

PUBLIC WORSHIP AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH to-morrow, will be conducted by the Rev. Messrs. Lindsley & Wilson, just arrived from the Atlantic States.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT, JUDGE.—Yesterday, the case of Bowman vs. Holladay et al, occupied the entire day.

OREGON CITY SEMINARY—CLOSING EXERCISES.—An acquaintance of Oregon City sends us the following communication:

The 28th day of June, 1870, was a marked day in the history of our Oregon City Seminary, and one deserving of notice. On that day six estimable young ladies of our city received their graduating cards, in the presence of one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in this city. After four days of strict and rigid written and oral examination, these six young ladies were declared to be entitled to their diplomas. The universal opinion of all who attended the examination, was that those young ladies deserved great credit for the truly gratifying manner in which they passed their examination, and that the Oregon City Seminary could with pride compare its graduates with those of any school in the State. Great praise is due to Dr. Forbes Barclay, our City School Superintendent, for the untiring interest he has taken in the advancement of the school, and also especially to the Principal, S. D. Pope, B. A., who has so successfully striven to elevate the Seminary to its present educational standing. The presentation of the rolls of honor and the diplomas took place at the Congregational Church on the evening of June 28. The Church was crowded, many being compelled to remain in the vestibule or at the windows on the outside. The following are the names of the young ladies who received their diplomas: Miss Hattie Barclay, Miss Mollie Barlow, Miss Katie Barclay, Miss Jennie Barlow, Miss Katie Hunsaker and Miss Emma Miller. The exercises were varied by able addresses from Rev. Messrs. Gerry and Selwood, music by the scholars, and the presentation of a magnificent Bible by Miss Katie Barclay, in behalf of the graduating class to the Principal, S. D. Pope, the presentation being a very gratifying surprise to Mr. Pope. Altogether the proceedings were exceedingly well conducted and calculated to excite a still greater interest in our Seminary.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.—The subjoined items are from the Advocate:

Rev. John Spencer, a member of the Oregon Conference, arrived in town on Thursday.

The annual Missionary sermon, for this Conference year, will be preached by Rev. William Roberts at the Taylor street M. E. Church, to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock. All are invited to attend.

Rev. C. S. Sprecher, pastor of the Lutheran Church, will return to the States by the next steamer. The sermons delivered by him to-morrow morning and evening, will be valedictory in their character.

The work of completing the Taylor street M. E. Church is progressing. Good judges say that the present indications are, that Mr. Wm. Wetmore will soon complete as good a job of plastering, as can be found in this State.

Rev. D. Rutledge, formerly of the Oregon Conference, and stationed preacher at Oregon City, Salem and Portland, was among the passengers by the last steamer from San Francisco. Bro. Rutledge is at present a member of the Tennessee Conference; and is agent of the Freedmen's Aid Society, and also of the Central Tennessee College.

The Sabbath-school Monthly Missionary Concert of the M. E. Church, for July, will be held in the basement of the First M. E. Church, corner of Taylor and Third streets, on to-morrow (Sabbath), the exercises commencing at 2 o'clock P. M. The following is the order of exercises for the occasion: Singing, by the School; Declamation, Stephen Bird; Quartette, Messrs. Crawford and Clement, Misses Anderson and Lilly; The Motto Bearers, "All the world for Jesus," by a class of eleven—being a repetition, with some additions, of the piece recited at the late exhibition; Quartette, Messrs. Crawford and Clement, Misses Anderson and Lilly; Singing by the School; Address, by Rev. D. Rutledge. All are respectfully invited to attend.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.—Of the annual meeting of the Wallamet Baptist Association, held in this city the past week, the Advocate says: "There were present eight ordained ministers, and twenty-five other delegates, including several licensed preachers. Rev. G. C. Chandler, D. D., was chosen Moderator, W. C. Johnson, Clerk and L. D. C. Latourette, Treasurer. The number of churches in this body is eleven, one being added this year. The statistics show a membership in these churches of 385, a nett increase during the year of 63, forty eight being added by baptism. Interesting reports were made by committees upon Home and Domestic Missions, Foreign Missions; Sunday Schools; State of Religion; Periodicals and Publications. For several years a state of alienation has existed between this body and the Central Association of Baptists, the largest in the State. A committee was present from the latter, seeking reconciliation, and we are happy to say that a resolution was adopted, affording great reason to hope that hereafter the Baptists of Oregon may all be united in working for God. There are four other associations of Baptists in Oregon, making a total membership for the denomination of about 2,000."

INSTALLATION.—The following officers were installed at the meeting of Hassalo Lodge No. 15, I. O. O. F., last night by D. D. G. M. J. N. Dolph, to serve for the ensuing term: T. H. Crawford, N. G.; A. G. Walling, V. G.; E. H. Stolte, R. S.; W. F. Curnell, P. S.; J. F. Jones, E.; Jos. Buchtel, W.; C. W. Parrish, C.; O. W. Durand, O. G., H. Northrup, I. G.; R. B. Randall, R. S. N. G.; W. L. Higgins, L. S. N. G.; B. Z. Holmes, R. S. V. G.; V. Cook, L. S. V. G.; S. Harris, R. S. S.; G. H. Durham, L. S. S.

FAREWELL SERMON.—Rev. C. S. Sprecher, intending to go East in a few days, will preach his farewell sermon at the Lutheran Church, to-morrow at 11 A. M. There will be evening service also.

WILL CELEBRATE.—The Washington Guard at their regular monthly meeting last night, resolved to celebrate the coming 4th at home by their usual parade and ball in the evening.

FOURTH OF JULY EXCURSIONS.—There is to be no celebration in due form, according to established precedents, in this city; but there are numerous manifest symptoms of fun on the glorious 4th. The Washington Guard will have an excursion, the Emmet Guard another, the M. E. persuasion another, and now comes the splendid steamer Oneonta and proposes to take everybody to the Cascades and to return in time for the evening festivities. In the evening there will be fireworks and a ball. It strikes us that nobody need die of ennui on that day.

A MEETING of the First Congregational Society will be held at their Church this evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desirable, as business of importance is to be transacted.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.—There will be services at the Unitarian Church Sabbath morning at the usual hour (11 o'clock A. M.) Sunday School as usual after the morning services.

EMMET GUARD'S EXCURSION.—The Fenian Brotherhood of this city, will accompany the Emmet Guard upon their excursion, on the 4th.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—The regular July term of the U. S. District Court will be opened in this city on Tuesday, July 5th.

ARRIVED.—The steamship Idaho arrived last night, five days from San Francisco.

THE WEST.

Greathouse Bros. were advertised to start an opposition line of stages between Boise City and the Basin, July 1st.

A Chinaman of Nevada City has been fooling a white man forty dollars' worth, with a three ounce nugget made of fused brass.

The Big Horn expedition of 5,000 men has come out at the "little end of the horn," having dwindled down to 127, who are striking out for Sweetwater.

A dispatch from Elko states that John G. Watson and Wash Whalen have each been sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary, for stage robbery. It will be remembered that Watson was for several years quite a notorious resident of Owyhee.

A modern Joseph has arisen in the person of Rev. J. M. Woodman, of Chico, California, who announces that next year there will be an awful famine, succeeding seven years of plenty, which the reverend gentleman says we have had. Mr. Woodman believes in works as well as faith, and is building granaries in which to store away the harvest to come this summer.

A company is formed at Helena, (Montana,) to bring water from the lake about twenty miles distant from the city. $40,000 is subscribed towards the object. The ditch will contain 20,000 inches of water. The survey and work on the ditch will commence at once. It will pass through and redeem some of the richest mining ground in the Territory, and greatly benefit the city.

"Westward speeds the star of empire," is the motto of a sprightly little paper called the Central Star, published weekly, at Fort Kearney, Nebraska. It advocates the passage of a law for the removal of the National Capital from the valley of the Potomac to the Fort Kearney military reservation on the valley of the Platte. What place will announce itself as next candidate?

Spotted Tail writes encouragingly to Mrs. Spotted Tail. In his last letter home he says: The white man is like the sands of the sea. His huts are like the trees of the forests. His horses are iron. Their speed is lightning. He has a little wire that goes over the great country. It reaches a hundred nations. He blows through the wire. The white man is a great blower. The words of his mouth go to the ends of the earth. They call up warriors and summon men to the council. But the soul of Spotted Tail knows no fear.

A dispatch from Pine Bluff, (Wyoming,) dated June 24th says: Red Cloud and party arrived here at 10:30 this morning, and were presented with seventeen horses, saddles and bridles, by Geo. J. E. Smith, in behalf of the Great Father, as his personal favor, and not on account of any treaty made by them, after which they promised to be the friends of the white man. Soon after they started for Fort Laramie, all mounted on their horses but Red Cloud, who rode in an ambulance. They were accompanied from here by Gen. J. E. Smith, Col. Bullock, and interpreters John Richards and J. R. McClasky. An escort of ten men under Lieutenant Morehead, of the Fifth Cavalry, went out with them twenty miles, and by request of General Smith returned this evening—Red Cloud thinking their presence indicating a want of faith in his honesty by the Government. Two army wagons and two ambulances take their luggage to Fort Laramie, where they expect to arrive in three days.

A Cross Husband.—Mrs. Smith—The fact is, my husband is becoming so outrageously cross and nervous that there is no living with him. He pretends one day that he has got the dyspepsia, the next day liver complaint, the next is sick, with no appetite—declares that there is nothing on the table fit to eat, and so on, it is all nonsense, and nothing but his confounded ugliness. From the very bottom of my heart, I believe he wants to worry me to death.

Lady Friend.—Mrs. Smith, I think you are wrong. No woman has a kinder or more indulgent husband than you. I must confess that I have noticed a change in Mr. Smith, but am inclined to think that all he wants is a tonic; and if I were you, I would not be a day without PLANTATION BITTERS in the house. Make him take them moderately three times a day, and in a short time I think you will see a change. My experience is that PLANTATION BITTERS is one of the best and most delicious tonics in the world, and that for nervousness, loss of appetite, dyspepsia and all kindred complaints there is nothing so good.

The Popular Tonic of the Age.

The day has gone by when a medicine without merit could command and retain the confidence of the world. Advertising induces the public to try many things, but in this shrewd and thoughtful age, words will not suffice without proofs, and it is by the exercise of their private judgment, men determine the relative value of the various articles recommended to their notice through the business columns of newspapers. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has now been subjected to this searching ordeal for more than eighteen years, and the result is that it stands at the head of the class of remedies to which it belongs. It has distanced and lived down innumerable competitors, and is to-day the standard Tonic of the Western world. The happy effects which have followed its use in cases of dyspepsia, biliousness, nervous affections, intermittent fevers and general debility, and as a constitutional invigorant, have entitled it to universal confidence. Nothing can ever shake its reputation, for it is based on the individual experiences of tens of thousands of witnesses embracing prominent and well known citizens of every profession, occupation and class. There is not a city, town or settlement in the United States where it is not a medicinal staple. No druggist or general dealer would consider his stock complete without it. The returns of the internal revenue department show that its sales exceed those of any other proprietary restorative manufactured on this side the Atlantic. The beneficial results derived during a long series of years from the use of Hostetter's Bitters, have convinced the whole community that the only true way to restore to health a broken down or debilitated system, or to put the human body on its defence when exposed to unwholesome influences, is to invigorate, regulate and purify it at one and the same time.

G. VENARD.
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851,
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects no thing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can be discovered only after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

Farm for Sale.

320 ACRES OF LAND, IN JACKSON COUNTY, for sale or exchange for city property. It is in the suburbs of Gasburg. Gasburg, like the beaver, is all "terminus." The branch of the Central Pacific Railroad will intersect the Oregon and California road at Gasburg. The Oregon Central will run through it, as does the stage road now, and many a railroad as yet unthought of will find its "terminus" in Gas-burg! The warm and dry winters, the mild Italian summers, the gushing spring water at short intervals, the lofty peaks of the Cascades on the east, the Coast Range on the west, the broad and fertile valleys on the north and south, and last, but not least, the inexhaustible forests on every hand, make it naturally one of the finest "terminuses" that ever was attached unto the "tother aend of any railroad. Also a one-third interest in a water-ditch and forty acres of mining lands, which have been worked for nine years and never failed to pay a dividend. Strawberries 5 cts. per pound, ONE MULE at 20 cts. per pound, and groceries in proportion.

Eating to Order.

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

We can hardly imagine a time on this world [illegible] earth when fires were unknown and only solar heat was present. But geology teaches us of an age before stoves and fire places, before there was [illegible] to use them, if they had existed. The legends of the Greeks relate the history of [illegible] mortal who stole fire from the gods, and brought it to men and taught them to use it. From that moment that men [illegible] contented with uncooked corn and raw meat, and aspired to the luxury of cooked food, began the long train of woes which have afflicted humanity, and whose center is the kitchen.

It was the sad dawn of [illegible] and the [illegible] tent, of anxieties [illegible] to make men [illegible] that were [illegible] hungry, of cooks and scullions, of smatterings, explosions and overturnings in the kitchen, innumerable and unending.

But, after all, eating is a thing of prime importance in this world. Looked at merely in a philosophical way, it is the fuel that generates steam for the engine. The body unfed would, in a day or two, be like a steamer without coal, unable to turn the wheel, and drifting helpless. Yet no one eats with this thought in his mind, but simply because he is hungry. For thousands of years men have eaten without a scientific motive, without rational appreciation of the relation of food to bone, muscle, nerve and so on. The whole motive lay in mouth. Men ate because it tasted good! This was certainly better than nothing, and seems to have answered the purpose thus far. But, by and by, when science shall have opened up the matter properly; when we know just the ingredients which the various parts of the body need, we shall have scientific bills of fare, in which dishes will not be obscured by absurd foreign names, but will be named from their true uses. Then we shall have bone-building, fat-producing, nerve replenishing, muscle-forming dishes. The host will scorn the days of ignorance when men asked their guests to take beef or pudding.

To a lean and cadaverous guest he will say "Let me fill your tissue!" or, "My dear sir, your bones are brittle, allow me to pass this compound. Better bones were never made than this produces."

To some exiguous scholar, thin and nervous, the jolly host will say, "My dear fellow, let me help you to brains. Which do you affect? This dish runs strongly to poetry, or philosophy, is it? This has been found to be admirable. It is such stuff as [illegible] cook points off for brain-breeding. It was on his dishes that professor Upset delivered that extraordinary course of lectures last year, that startled all sound thinking men, and set them to eating truer dishes, by which the absurdities of Upset were exposed and refuted."

"Why, sir, philosophy is only food [illegible] realized. To such nicety have we reduced this science of cooking, that I can send a bill to my cook any day, 'Send up four philosophers, two musicians, and one poet,' and he will at once set things astew, and in his skillet or pan, the hidden elements will begin to hiss and sputter, that in a day or two, will come forth from some brain as a sonnet or madrigal, or a grave chapter of philosophy."

What an age will that be! Now a man eats promiscuously. Often when the preacher would be tender, he in his ignorance has been feeding combativeness. He fain would appeal to men's consciences, but has been eating food which breeds abstract thought!

In the culinary millennium a man and his cook will be like twin brothers. The lawyer will say: "Give me a jury breakfast, Tom—an average jury;" and looking into his new psychological receipt book, his dear Tom will find just the articles required. The man will gain his case, unless his opponent has a better cook, and was fed up to a higher pleading level.

In that day institutions will be subject to order. The right part being fed, it will be automatically active. We shall no more hear about "ragout," and "chops," and "steaks a la" this, that and the other thing. The comfits and [illegible] and bon-bons will give way to higher names indicative of mental powers. We shall hear men say "Do let me give you another spoonful of [illegible]. Those speculations are very trying, and you need strength in the right spot."

"Lost the game? Why, you neglected yourself. Chess is a sure thing on this diet. Let me help you to a little more."

"Don't, my dear Madam, don't touch that! Not but that I am willing that you should have anything the house affords. But it is provoking to the temper. It is wonderful what spirit it breeds. It is for timid persons entirely."

Ah, me! what a world of teaching and training, and trouble, and mistakes and blaming will be over with, when we can contract more [illegible] stew pan, and turn our problems from the kitchen like omelets. Meanwhile, Bonner, you and I shall have to eat in the old way, only looking over into the promised land of science.

RELICS OF THE DEAD—EIGHT THOUSAND SKELETONS.—A late French paper says that some excavations have recently been made at Solferino and San Martino, and have led to the discovery of eight thousand skeletons. The newspaper called L'Italie publishes the following details respecting the objects found among the sad relics of these victims of war:

"These objects are placed in a glass case, which is locked and arranged in twelve divisions. There are pieces of money of every description, Crimean and religious medals, rings, keepsakes made of hair, seals, and a watch. All these divisions, which compose the center of the glass case, are surrounded by a quantity of buttons, bearing the numbers of the regiments, French and Austrian eagles, and other ornaments belonging to particular branches of the army. Two of the Crimean medals, which have names on them, belonging to French soldiers, one of them of the 100th Regiment of the line. It has been decided that they shall be restored to their families. A keepsake which has remained ten years upon a corpse naturally possesses great value.

Another object which has excited interest is a silver watch found in Cavriana. The hands are at thirty-three minutes after four. The last combat in this spot was at half after four. The interior of the watch was filled with blood. It is evident that the wound was in the breast, and that the blood stopped the movement of the watch. Therefore, if the hands do not indicate the precise time of death, they unquestionably point out that of the wounding. Some interesting letters were also found in a portfolio. They were exhibited on a table near the glass case, but they have disappeared. King Victor Emmanuel, who visited this funeral exhibition, seemed forcibly struck with it, and he expressed his thanks to the society called the Ricordo, which had been organized for the disinterment of the brave men who fell upon the battle field whereon Italy, thanks to the generous assistance of France, reconquered her national existence."

HOW CELESTIAL INFLUENCES [illegible] THE CAPITOL IN WASHINGTON.—Some years ago, when experiments were made with the pendulum at Bunker Hill Monument, Mass., it was incidentally found by Prof. [illegible] that every morning the plumb line suspended from the centre of the top to the floor had a tendency to incline to the west, every noon toward the north, and in the afternoon to the east. These movements were found the most marked when the sun shone, and thus [illegible] the expansion of [illegible] by the heat of its rays. It was lately tried what is the amount of this influence on the Capitol dome in Washington, which is of iron, a substance which, as is well known, expands more than stone. A long plumb line was fastened to the under side of the ceiling of the rotunda, and extended to the [illegible] below. The plummet described daily an elliptical curve, of which the longest diameter was from the east to west, and in hot sunny days amounted to four or five inches. Prof. Henry, of the Smithsonian Institution, remarks in regard to this, "By molecular action of this kind, perpetually continued, time, the slow but sure destroyer, levels with the ground the loftiest monuments of human pride."

The Cuban Question—General Grant, Congress and the Republican Party.

From the N. Y. Herald, June [illegible]

The President [illegible] victory achieved in Congress on the Cuban question, in the acceptance, 103 to 86, of a [illegible] substitute for the resolution [illegible] Banks from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the substitute resolution being as follows:

"That the President be hereby authorized to remonstrate against the barbarous manner in which the war in Cuba has been conducted, and, if he shall deem it expedient, [illegible] of other governments [illegible] to secure from both contending parties an observance of the laws of war recognized by all civilized nations."

[illegible] the President is [illegible] upon the subject, not only by the House, but by the Republican party of the House, for only a small minority of that party voted in the negative. Several important points are thus established. First, the President is sustained by Congress and his party, which is the responsible party in Congress. Second, he is strengthened in Congress as the head and executive embodiment of his party in reference to the Presidential succession. Third, he is strengthened in the general policy of his administration—peace, progress, retrenchment, the lessening of our burden of taxes and the redemption of the public debt. Fourth, the attention of Spain and the civilized world is called, in a voice which cannot be disregarded, to "the barbarous manner in which the war in Cuba has been conducted." Fifth, it is left to the President's discretion whether to invite or not the co-operation of other nations in a remonstrance on this subject, and whether he shall or shall not reorganize his Cabinet for a new departure.

This resolution, therefore, may be well pronounced not only a great victory for the sound [illegible] policy of General Grant, but a most important victory for the Republican party [illegible]. We find [illegible] of our Democratic [illegible] Grant as a candidate for the succession. For instance, one of these prophetic Democratic organs says that Grant, "in his weakness and political inexperience, has suffered himself to be estranged from the really shrewd and cunning politicians of his party, and has entrusted his fortunes in the hands of a clique quite as selfish and arbitrary, but at the same time infinitely weaker in skill and resources, and that, following the dictation of these men, Grant has lost what little popularity he had with the people, and has effectually spoiled all his chances for a renomination."

Here the great difficulty which most perplexes the Democratic wirepullers for the succession is frankly confessed. It is Grant. If he were only out of the way the course would be clear. How can we shelve him? The only way is to foment discords in the Republican camp and bring about such a split as will divide the party upon two candidates in 1872, or rule Grant off the track. This, then, is the game of the Democratic leaders and organs; and as all things are fair in war they must be allowed to play it. The same game, however, was played against Jackson, and against Lincoln for a second term, but in both cases it signally failed. While the Democracy, therefore, are manoeuvering to bring about the shelving of Grant, they will be acting very foolishly if they neglect to consider the overwhelming probabilities of his nomination for another term. So far they have done nothing in recognition of the "fixed facts" with which in 1872 they will have to deal—facts inevitably demanding a great change from the Tammany programme of 1868.

Meantime the only safe position the Republicans can occupy is that of adhesion to Grant's administration, and their only available candidate for '72 is Grant, on his safe and trusty platform of peace, progress, development of our resources, retrenchment of expenses and taxes, and redemption of the debt. This is admitted by the responsible party in the decisive House vote on this Cuban question. It is an admission that Congress cannot afford to run the risk of raising the price of gold and embarrassing our financial affairs and the business affairs of the country by filibustering resolutions; that there is no necessity for war declarations or materials for Wall street panics for the benefit of unscrupulous speculators and stock jobbers; that the administration must be sustained in fostering the interests of peace, productive industry, European emigration to our shores, financial steadiness and public confidence in our national treasury, and the payment of the national debt. These are the great duties assumed by General Grant, the grand objects to which it is his policy to make all other questions subordinate, and upon this policy he will be sustained by the country. The Alabama claims will keep, and if it does not settle itself meantime we can, with our way clear before us, settle the Cuban question at any time hereafter. St. Domingo is offered as a great bargain, involving no foreign difficulty, and hence General Grant has earnestly labored for this desirable annexation. He will not, however, quarrel with the Senate about it; for he has no notion of repeating the follies of Andy Johnson.

General Grant, in a word, is the right man in the right place at this crisis of peace, as he was in the crisis of the war. He has certain great objects before him now, as he had then, and he sticks to the grand peace idea of settling the debt as he stuck to the grand war idea of capturing the army of Lee. As all his combinations of the war, near and remote, great and small, were directed to the capture of Lee's army, so now all his measures of policy are made subordinate to the payment of the national debt. Upon this grand idea his administration is secure, and his safe and saving policy will command the approval of the country, and the House of Representatives so understands it in endorsing him on the Cuban question.

THE DICKENS FAMILY.—The Boston Advertiser says: Mrs. Charles Dickens survives her husband. She has lived apart from him, comfortably maintained from his means, for many years. Mr. Dickens had [illegible] several children, and leaves two daughters, one married to Mr. Charles Collins, brother of Wilkie Collins, the novelist, and one unmarried, and several sons, the eldest married and now dabbling in literature, one in Australia, one in the navy, and one winning high honors in the university. Miss Hogarth, a sister of his wife, and a lady of great strength, beauty and purity, has given her life to the care of the family, and was with Mr. Dickens at Gad's Hill at the time of his death. Of his many friends, perhaps the most intimate was Mr. John Forster the biographer of Goldsmith and Landor, to whom Mr. Dickens dedicated the last [illegible] of his works, and it seems likely that upon Mr. Forster will devolve the duty of writing [illegible] in this country [illegible] exhaustive labor [illegible] of Mr. [illegible] the tragedian.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing, and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Terrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of self-indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the real enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible and destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who has a certain cure for the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest the cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from European and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz.: sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained immediately, either in person or by letter, and have effected by his new and scientific mode of treating the disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and willing to teach patients who will entrust themselves, to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, by Express, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus diplomas and certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1860 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry; it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. P. O. Box 1,957.

REMEMBER THE P. O. BOX 988 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
